

Director's Note

Greetings from Concordia College in Moorhead, MN!

I am proud to service as program director for our Master of Education with a concentration in Teaching & Learning. I currently serve as the director of our flagship graduate program, the Master of Education in World Language Instruction and have had the privilege of working alongside wonderful graduate faculty and language teachers from across the United States and world in that program to explore innovative and timely topics in the field of language education. For the past six years, I have observed as our program has transformed teachers' practices, confidence, and leadership. Because of that experience, I am confident that we will have a similar impact on teachers in this new program,.

The two main features that set us apart from other graduate programs - our individualized approach to graduate education and the support and care our faculty offer our students. Students continually tell us they never anticipated the level of support from faculty and their cohort in our program, and it lasts years after graduation. Teachers navigated complex teaching situations due to Covid-19, and perhaps going forward a cohort of supportive teachers and dedicated, invested faculty are just what practicing teachers need.

Please reach out to set up a meeting with me.

I am always happy to meet with prospective graduate students!
